Thank you for your letter of 13th August, from which I am glad to learn that we may expect you and [Redacted] between 12th and 18th October. We are looking forward very much to your visit.

I note the position about your African monitoring and it ties up with the reactions which I have obtained from our official consumers here. There would be considerable interest in African monitoring, particularly in East Africa, but it is doubtful whether there is a sufficiently urgent demand at the present time to gain support for the necessary expenditure. Like you I foresee the probability of a stronger requirement in the future, and I hope you will keep me informed of any developments in this field.

I am going on leave for a fortnight at the end of this week, and on my return I pay a short visit to Tehran in connection with the setting up of our Project there. I will be back before you reach London.

Yours sincerely,

J. T. Campbell
Head of Monitoring Service
